

The FutureBeef initiative for beef extension aims to bring the latest research technologies and best management practice knowledge, skills and training into the hands of northern beef producers.

FutureBeef will:

- Focus on industry priorities to help business respond faster and more effectively
- Combine investment in beef extension to provide practical tools, management practices and information
- Help producers access the latest information via new technologies including webinars, YouTube videos and online learning modules
- Enable professional development for producers by providing access to relevant workshops and courses.
